BUREAU OF MINES SAVES MILLIONS THROUGH SÂLVAGE

Billions of Tons of Mineral-Bearing Earth Have Been Scrapped and Ore Saved That Would Be Lost.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan 24. (Spl.)
—Millions of dollars worth of mineral salvage has been effected recently through the activities of the Bureau of Mines in the campaign being conducted to improve the handling methods used in to improve the handling methods used in digging out America's great natural resources. Particularly in the last five or six years has the Government been watching with more than ordinary closeness the prodigal waste that exists in exploitation of American minerals and other natural resources, and every effort is now being bent to get the most out of the still lavish supply.

The present campaign, which is more of a policy of administration, is built around the chain of experiment stations to help in working out the most difficult.

In the clay industry, for instance, the Government has established an experiment station at Columbus. Ohio, situated in the heart of one of the largest producing fields in the country. This station is co-operation with the clay-digging interests and lending its advice and experiment services to the more than 4.000 clay product manufacturing firms of the country. The annual returns from this industry are approximately $210,000,000, and the clay firms of the country represent an investment of about $375,000,000. Highly satisfactory improvements have been effected in the handling and treatment of clay products through the experiments of the Columbus station and they have recuited in large annual savings.

Exploit Low, Grade Ores.

Exploit Low, Grade Ores.

One of the most important economic problems the country has known since the days of '49 has been that of salvaging the low grade ores. Billions of tons of mineral-bearing earth have been scrapped in the West because the large operator had no time to bother with anything but "pay dirt" and the small operator lacked the funds for making the "low-pay" dirt yield its riches. In the Colorado radium-bearing fields the earth was at one time practically operator lacked the funds for making clocks may have been maked or snipped the "low-pay" dirt yield its riches. In the Colorado radium-bearing fields the earth was at one time practically thrown at the European market for a song, because the yield was so trivial from the American viewpoint. But European buyers developed ways of getting radium out through reasonable treatment, and then shipped it back to us at stupendous prices. Through the efforts of the Golden, Colo station an American extraction method has been maked or snipped to semand the practically the smalled or snipped to some distant point for manufacture to some distant point for hombs.

The police have argued that bomb-makers would prefer to steal their clocks rather than buy them, because they feared police would be able to trace the purchaser of he bought manufacture. developed and the ground work of a radium industry in this country estabsame situation was true, and

This same situation was true, and atill is in part, of the other minural fields, including the ore lands of the northwest and the Facific, the lead and gine fields of Utah and neighboring states and the iron lands of Minnesota. The Bureau of Mines now has stations established at Minneapolis, Salt Lake City, Utah. Seattle, Wash., Tucson, Ariz., and Berkely, Cal., combating these low-grade ore problems and they are meeting with marked success. In Minnesota alone it is estimated the reserve of low-grade magnetic iron ores amounts to some forty-billion tons. Until recently these ores, including vast deposits of the Cuyuna Range, had been untouched because there had been no process devised for treating then profitably.

untouched because there had been he process devised for treating them profitably.

In Pittaburgh, the work of the Bureau of Mines has been very generally exploited and the experiment station has dealt largely with all the problems of mining, including those of mine safety. The particular problems of this territory have to do with coal mining and safety methods for combating mine gasses and explosions. Great savings have also been effected through the work of the experiment station at Bartlesville. Okla., where economic methods of oil drilling and stemping of waste in the natural gas fields has presented a problem.

"Work such as this," according to Director Manning of the Federal Bureau "not only atimulates mineral production and helps to make available tremendous resources that are now unused, but it increases the total wealth of the nation and ultimately benefits every citizen."

Speaking of the situation particularly in the wost, where low-grade earth must be made to pay, he said:

"At more than a dozen mile in the West, engineers from the stations are working directly with the mill men on various problems, and the results they have already obtained more than warrant the existence of the stations. Success in solving one problem may easily be worth millions to the country."

FAMOUS WINDMILLS OF HOLLAND PASSING

AMSTERDAM. Jan 24. Holland is alonly but surely losing the one characteristic of its landscape made famous in art and known to every schoolboy—the squat fat, lazy-looking windmills that for centuries have stood out all over the country's flat surface.

These quaint structures are gradually giving way to highly practical, but ugly stoam and electric plants. Dutch technical men say the windmill is doomed.

Now and then, a large group of them is replaced by one electric plant, and in the course of each year a number are destroyed by fire—presenting a spectacular blaze with the hig burning wings wheeling around like flery arms.

They are never reconstructed. wings wheeling around like flery arms. They are never reconstructed.

The existing type of Dutch windmill was invented about the year 1400.
The great disadvantage of the windmill,
of course, is its absolute dependence on weather conditions. For this reason, they are being replaced, when possible,
by modern machinery.

The Dutch windmill, however much it

Naturally, a great many of them re-main, but the number becomes less main, but the number becomes less year by year, and, so far as can be as-certained, the erection of a new one is seldom undertaken.

STEALS ONLY ALARM CLOCKS: ANARCHIST?

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan 24.—Police of the San Francisco bay region are mystiffed by the activities of an aiarm clock burglar. More than 400 alarm clocks have been stolen by this man. The clocks are of all sight and descriptions. The thief merely takes the clock and passes up other valuables. The theory that the thief was operating for a band of anarchists and that the clocks were to be used for time bombs was held for some time, and is still being considered. However, only a few time bombs have been brought to light here recently. It is suggested the light here recently. It is suggested the clocks may have been mailed or shipped to some distant point for manufacture
